Clinical Social Work Journal

CALL FOR PAPERS FOR A SPECIAL ISSUE ON:
IMPACT OF COVID-19 ON SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE AND EDUCATION

Guest Editor
S. Lala Straussner, PhD
New York University, Silver School of Social Work

Clinical Social Work Journal seeks submissions for a Special Issue on the impact of COVID-19 on social work clinicians, educators and clinical researchers. Relevant manuscripts may consist of reflection papers, case reports, preliminary research data, and issues related to COVID-19 in field work and social work education.

Manuscripts that address one or more of the following topics are welcome:

1. Emerging new practice skills and techniques in the midst of COVID-19 around the globe
2. How social workers successfully shifted their face-to-face practice to online and/or the obstacles they encountered doing so (how this shift interfered or enhanced the clinical process)
3. Issues in online clinical supervision
4. How clinicians’ own anxiety, loss, fear, etc. are affecting their work and how to cope with these difficulties via self-care strategies
5. Case reports in which a client was able to exercise their strength and resilience in the midst of this hardship and what made it possible
6. Addressing discrimination, prejudice, and paranoia due to the spread of COVID-19
7. Psychoeducational work, outreach, and other community approaches to help prevention and high-risk behaviors
8. Dealing with sudden loss, physical challenges and other traumas due to COVID-19
9. Issues in social work education in the midst of a pandemic
10. Issues in clinical research in the midst of a pandemic

Prospective authors need to submit a preliminary abstract of 150-200 words by May 10, 2020 to Dr. S. Lala Straussner at lala.straussner@nyu.edu. If abstracts are accepted, articles need to be publication-ready by June 15, 2020.

Before submission, authors should carefully read Author Guidelines located at https://www.springer.com/journal/10615. Full manuscripts will be evaluated using Clinical Social Work Journal’s usual blind peer review process. For questions, please contact lala.straussner@nyu.edu or Dr. Carol Tosone at carol.tosone@nyu.edu.
